First of all, I'm sorry for the late reply.

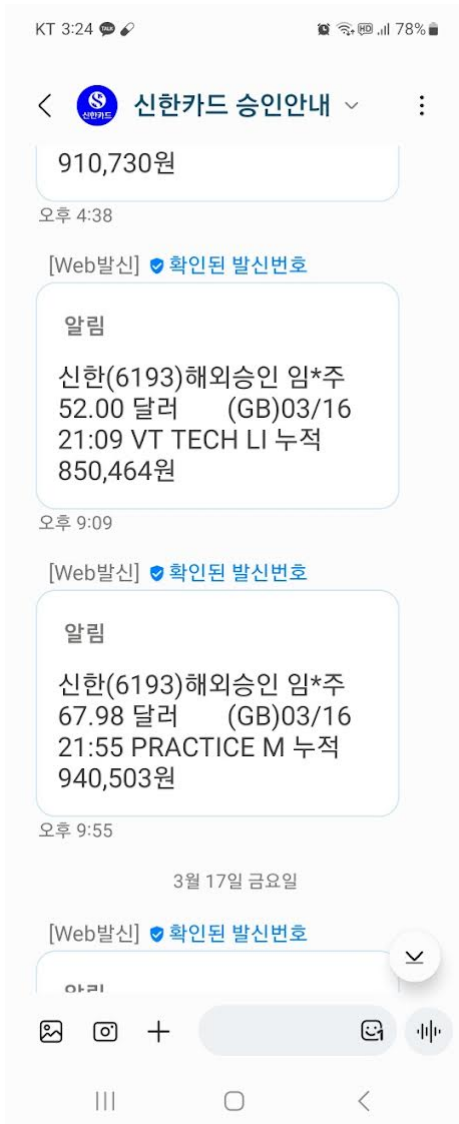

I bought dump from another site and took the test because I heard that the payment was not made.

However, after checking it later, it was confirmed that the payment was made and the money was used.

So I am sending you an email again.

The message regarding $52.00 at 9:09 in the attached photo is a reminder that the payment has been approved.

I have no intention of purchasing dump again, and I hope your site will check the payment again and cancel the payment.

I didn't understand what you were saying.
I have three questions.

1. Are you saying that your company has processed the refund process?
2. Are you saying there's something else I need to do?
3. What should I do if I have something to deal with?
